The Law Protects Women

- In 2014, women can’t be charged more for same coverage as men
- Insurers won’t be able to deny coverage to women because of a preexisting condition
- Insurers won’t impose a lifetime cap on coverage
- And no woman will have to stay in a job just to have health insurance
- By 2016, 13 million women will gain coverage!
Expanded Maternity Coverage, 2014

8.7 million women with individual insurance plans will gain maternity coverage
Maternal, Infant, and Early Childhood Home Visiting Program

- Authorized and funded over 5 years at $1.5 billion
- Funds almost all states
- Goals: Improve maternal, newborn health; prevent child abuse and domestic violence; improve school readiness; improve economic self-sufficiency
- Nurses, social workers meet with families in homes; connect families to needed assistance
- 75% of funding to program models proven effective
  - So far, 13 models meet effectiveness criteria
  - Supports research to find other effective models
Health Insurance Marketplace

Beginning on October 1, 2013, individuals, families, and small-business owners in every state will gain access to affordable, quality health insurance through the new Health Insurance Marketplace.* Coverage will begin in January 2014.
